

EXPLORING GLOBAL JUSTICE DEBRIEF

Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.

Martin Luther King Jr

Purpose

To explore what the term 'global justice' means in the context of Somalia, Guatemala and Palestine.

Materials

- Exploring Global Justice video
- Video debrief questions

What is global justice?

- Global justice begins with human rights.
- Every person, everywhere in the world, is born with the same rights.
- This means everyone should have equal access to the resources that they need, and have the power to make decisions that affect their lives.
- However, for many people around the world, this does not happen.

How do people experience injustice?

- The denial of human rights.
- The absence of opportunity.
- Not having a voice, and no power or control over one's destiny.
- The causes of these injustices often lie in systems and places outside of a person's control, and often outside their own country.

Activity 1: Global Justice Video

Step 1

Watch the Exploring Global Justice video located on the trunk.

Step 2

Give everyone a moment to digest the video. Check in with the group for their initial reactions to what they have just seen.

Note: Every human being has the right to a nationality, a family, a home and protection under the law. It is important that students talk about rights and injustices, and are encouraged to identify where they see rights being denied and where they see people experiencing an injustice.

Step 3: Video Debrief

Explain that the purpose of the video is to explain what the term global justice means. Then ask the young people the following questions.

Summary

Country	Issue	Systems Analysis
Somalia	Unable to meet their basic needs due to climate change	Climate justice
Guatemala	Lack of secure access to land due to actions of corporations	Corporate power/business and human rights
Palestine	Home demolitions/displacement	Illegal occupation
