

EXPLORING GLOBAL JUSTICE DEBRIEF

Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.

Martin Luther King Jr

Purpose

To explore what the term 'global justice' means in the context of Somalia, Guatemala and Palestine.

Materials

- Exploring Justice video
- Video debrief questions

Note: We recognise that any resources focusing on global issues can resonate with individuals because of their lived experience; therefore, we advise that you read each activity in advance and modify it if you feel there is anything that may affect an individual or group. The content relating to the three focus countries this year – Somalia, Guatemala and Palestine – focuses on a number of perspectives, but there are many more. It is important as youth workers that we avoid reinforcing negative stereotypes through the activities contained in this resource.

What is global justice?

- Global justice begins with human rights.
- Every person, everywhere in the world, is born with the same rights.
- This means everyone should have equal access to the resources that they need, and have the power to make decisions that affect their lives.
- However, for many people around the world, this does not happen.

How do people experience injustice?

- The denial of human rights.
- The absence of opportunity.
- Not having a voice, or power or control over one's destiny.
- The causes of these injustices often lie in systems and places outside of a person's control, and often outside their own country.

Activity 1: Global Justice Video

Time

20 minutes

Step 1

Watch the Exploring Justice video located on trunk.

Step 2

Give everyone a moment to digest the video. Check in with the group for their initial reactions to what they have just seen.

Step 3: Video Debrief

Explain that the purpose of the video is to explain what the term global justice means. Then ask the young people to answer the following questions.

Summary

Country	Issue	Systems Analysis
Somalia	Unable to meet their basic needs due to climate change	Climate justice
Guatemala	Lack of secure access to land due to actions of corporations	Corporate power/business and human rights
Palestine	Home demolitions/displacement/restriction of movement	Illegal occupation
